EXECUTIVE EDUCATION: LEADERSHIP
MAY 11-13, 2016

COURSE OBJECTIVE
Working in political environments, governmental managers must augment their technical knowledge and abilities with the people skills of leadership. This course helps participants develop the tools and understand guidelines needed to lead as a public sector manager. It will benefit those who want to effectively interact with elected officials and skillfully oversee employees. Lead faculty is John Thomas, an Andrew Young School scholar and professor. With four books and more than 60 articles in print, he is internationally recognized for his research in public management and policy.

COURSE BENEFITS
▶ World-class faculty from the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies
▶ Leading experts from the public and private sector as guest speakers
▶ Small class size and in-depth material emphasize strategic thinking
▶ Participants will leave ready to tackle real-world problems

GUEST SPEAKERS
Ambassador Andrew Young, civil rights leader and former mayor of Atlanta
Anthony “Tony” A. Williams, former two-term mayor of Washington, D.C.

TUITION
Regular: $1,415/Public Sector: $985 (30 percent discount)
Cost includes course content/materials, light breakfast and afternoon snack.

REGISTER BY MAY 4
To register and for more information, please visit CSLF at cslf.gsu.edu/training.

Ranked No. 5 in the Nation in Public Finance and Budgeting
U.S. News & World Report